

Everyone has a story to tell. What's yours? Will you share your story?

Stories need not be long – half a page to a couple of pages would be good just to get something of your past or present in writing.

Stories can be just a brief summary of your life or part of your life in Barmera, the Riverland or somewhere completely different.

It can be a simple recollection of a special time in your life, or a series of memories about school days, early work history, travel stories, stories of the Barmera drive-in or the Bonney Theatre matinee sessions, local picnics, schools or club memberships – will you be generous enough to share your story with others?

The stories will be collated into a book for our local history collection. With Barmera's Centenary coming up in 2021, we need to start gathering as much history as we can now. If we don't act now, many families' stories will remain unrecorded.

The main thing is to get it on paper – type it or in your own handwriting - email barmera.library@plain.sa.gov.au or drop into the Barmera Library during Library and Information Week 21st to 26th May.

Don't worry if you've never written anything before – just give it a go. Your own words are all that you need to be a part of sharing a piece of our history with others.

All stories must be signed – photos of authors will be used if included and the stories will be made available in our local history section and on our website.

Don't delay – get those writing pens out now, those typewriters or those keyboards clicking!

Sharing your story is a gift to future generations. Thank you!
